Gary Daniel GELDART

Athlete – Hockey

A Moncton native, Gary Geldart was called up to the NHL big leagues in 1970 when he was named defenceman for the Minnesota North Stars. He spent eight years playing professional hockey, realizing a dream he'd had since he first laced his skates as a youth. Geldart played Bantam hockey with the Moncton Red Wings, honing skills in both the NS and NB Junior Leagues. In 1968 he moved to Ontario to play for the OHLs Hamilton Red Wings and London Knights. After the NHL, Geldart played for the AHL's Cleveland Barons from 1971 to '73. He was on the Nova Scotia Voyageurs Calder Cup winning team and was named to the AHL second all-star team for his tough defence moves while playing for the New Haven Night Hawks in the 1976-77 season.
